MARK GARDINER

BA, LLB, MBA

Legal Director

Mark describes himself as a lawyer, consultant and business adviser; he is not a typical lawyer. He has more than thirty years' experience in Corporate and Commercial law developed in a variety of industries, together with extensive business management experience underpinned by an MBA.

He began his professional career as a police prosecutor before becoming a compliance and corporate governance specialist and one of Australia's foremost gaming lawyers. He held several General Counsel and Company Secretary roles within both listed and non-listed gaming companies, assuming total responsibility for all aspects of their global commercial, corporate and intellectual property legal services.

Mark has also held several non-legal roles throughout his career and it is the experience gained in these roles, together with his legal skills and qualifications that adds value to all that he does. He works closely with business units and key stakeholders to develop and facilitate business growth while providing necessary legal safeguards granting you peace of mind while your business thrives.
